Summary of reasons for decision:

The publication is deemed objectionable because it tends to promote and support the exploitation of young persons for sexual purposes.

The publication is focused on a realistic illustration of a young teenage trans girl's partial nudity as she sits doing homework. The girl is drawn in a manner that is intended to be sexually arousing. By extension, it presents young persons generally as suitable for the purpose of adult sexual arousal. The availability of such images tends to break down social taboos against the sexual exploitation of young persons. Even in illustrated form the image supports the idea that a sexual interest in young persons is feasible and valid.

The classification of this publication interferes with the right to freedom of expression set out in the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990. However, this is an outcome that is consistent with Parliament's intention and is a reasonable limitation on the freedom of expression. The classification reflects the concern of a free and democratic society to protect its young and vulnerable members from sexual exploitation.
